

Gavin Godby

“There is no substitute for experience.” Somehow as we get older that phrase sounds better and better! With over 25 years of information technology experience, Gavin Godby delivers sound expertise to his clients, with the calm assurance of a seasoned professional.

Born in Edmonton, Gavin has roots in the Edmonton area that go back a long way. His grandfather worked in the coal branch and then moved his family to Edmonton when it was time for Gavin’s father to attend high school. Edmonton was the place Gavin’s parents met and gave birth to their first son.

Gavin returned to the Edmonton region after his graduation from university. Over the years Gavin has worked in various roles in government and industry, and has taught at the University of Alberta, and Grant MacEwan Community College. Thanks to his broad background Gavin has developed the ability to communicate effectively at all levels of the organizations he serves.

Much of Gavin’s story is based on his diversity of experience and constant quest for self-improvement. Gavin believes in being healthy in mind, body and spirit. He has constantly striven to achieve the best in himself and others.

Through his corporation GGN Solutions Inc., Gavin has provided complete custom software solutions for agricultural and oil patch clients, as well as website development and management.

Gavin has built his organization to specifically address the needs of small to mid-size corporations that require IT support but have limited internal IT resources. With his wealth of experience and knowledge Gavin is able to put together the IT resources that each organization needs to operate and manage their business. Gavin’s philosophy is that while he may be the expert on the IT side, the customer is the expert when it comes to their business. In simplest terms, Gavin ensures that the business requirements of an organization are the primary driving force for any proposed and implemented IT solution.

The explosive growth of the Internet over the past couple of decades has changed the computing landscape forever. Many businesses now rely heavily on the Internet to market their products and services, deliver new clients, and to interact with existing customers. How to do this effectively is a challenge that Gavin and his company GGN Solutions Inc. have taken on in an effort to further promote the success of their clients. Many small to medium-size corporations could benefit enormously by leveraging the Internet, but just don’t know where to start or how to further the initiatives they have already started. A website it just the beginning! Internet marketing is now of major importance in business promotion and success.

Gavin and his company GGN Solutions Inc. take the mystery out of the process. Gavin assesses the situation and discusses options with the client staying focused on the business needs, not the technology. Clients have the peace of mind knowing that the advice is sound and well thought through ... after all, it is based on over 25 years of experience.
